CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

The annual banquet of county board school members was an occasion to forget school business.

Gathered in the Fairview Library, Mr. John Verzella and Mr. William Black wait for a negotiations meeting to begin.

Mr. Meredith checks before the meeting with Mr. Olen Gibson and Mr. Joseph Kadilak, president and vice-president respectively.

Seated: Mrs. Betty Jane Brucker, Mr. Olen Gibson, Mr. Joseph Kadilak, Dr. Thomas Bonfiglio, Mr. John Parsons. Standing: Mr. Meredith and Mr. Michael Gingerella. Absent: Mr. Charles Jacoby and Mrs. Jane Speerhas, secretary.

School events and club activities are regulated by Mr. Carlisle McPherson, Assistant Principal.

Superintendent Frank A. Meredith has been our chief administrator since 1958. His intense interest in academics has helped to make our school one of the county's best.

Administrators' Duties Are Never-Ending

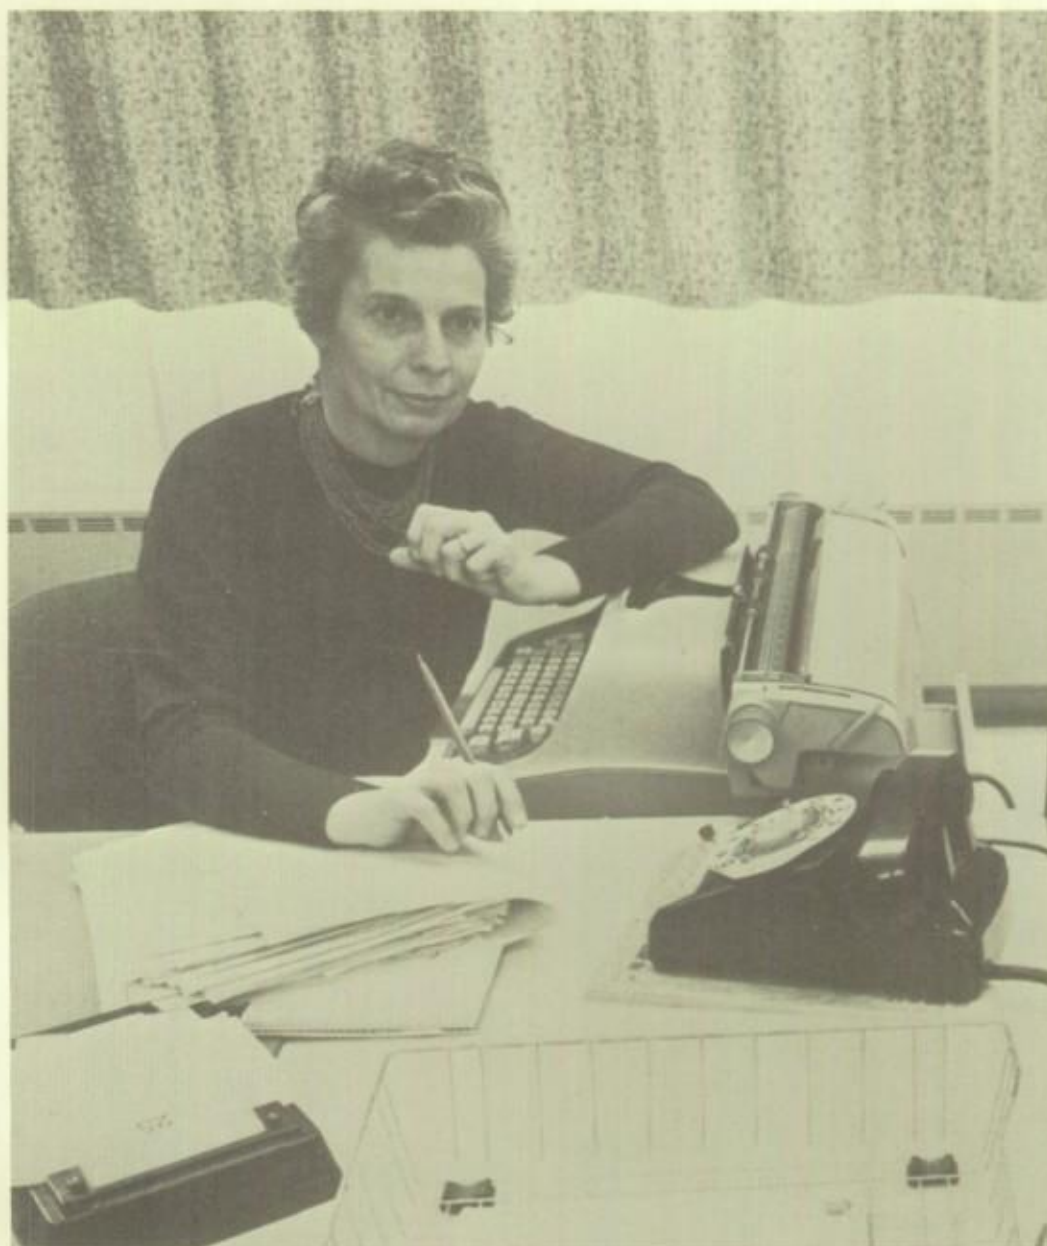

Discussions with administrators from other school districts is one of the many ways our principal, Mr. Michael Arbutina, keeps informed of the ever-changing trends in education.

Our Office Force Is Efficient and Cheerful

In every well-run school a capable clerical staff stands ready to serve administrators, teachers, students, and public. Our staff is no exception. Maintaining their poise and calm in spite of many interruptions and varied duties, our secretaries continue to do their job well.

Announcements were frequently read by Mrs. Kathy Kovalesky, personal secretary to Mr. McPherson.

Mr. Arbutina's personal secretary, Mrs. Sara Graham, is kept busy by her many office duties, including answering the telephone and taking care of students at the desk.

Mrs. Jane Speerhas arrives at Fairview School, where she is personal secretary to Mr. Meredith.

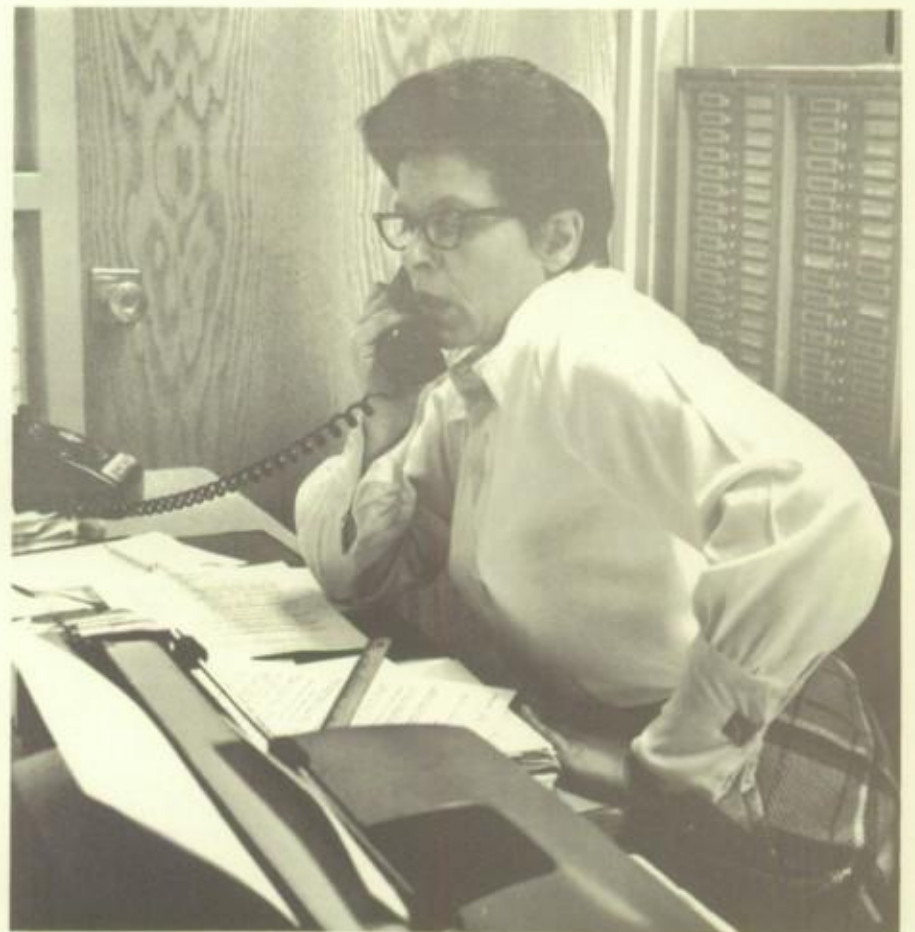

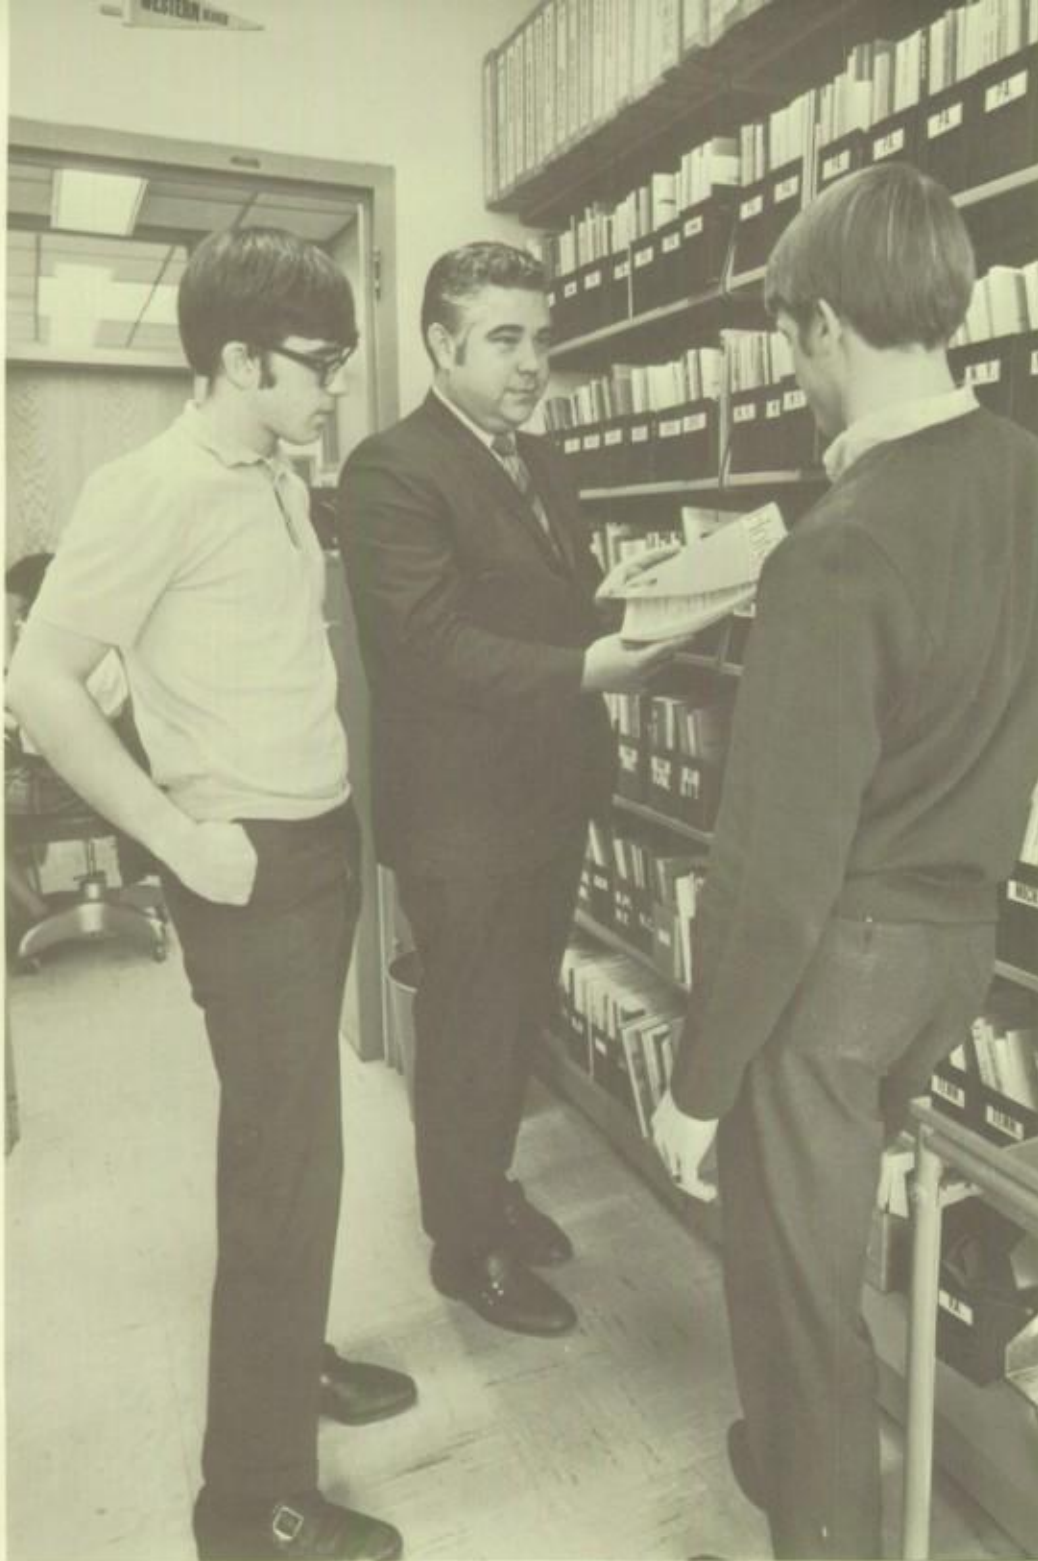

Mrs. Rae Lentz, office clerk, doubles as Mrs. Safford's secretary in the library.

Mr. Meredith's personal clerk, Mrs. Betty Nida, also has her office in the Fairview School.

Office work and filing for the guidance department is handled by Mrs. Florence Krakoff.

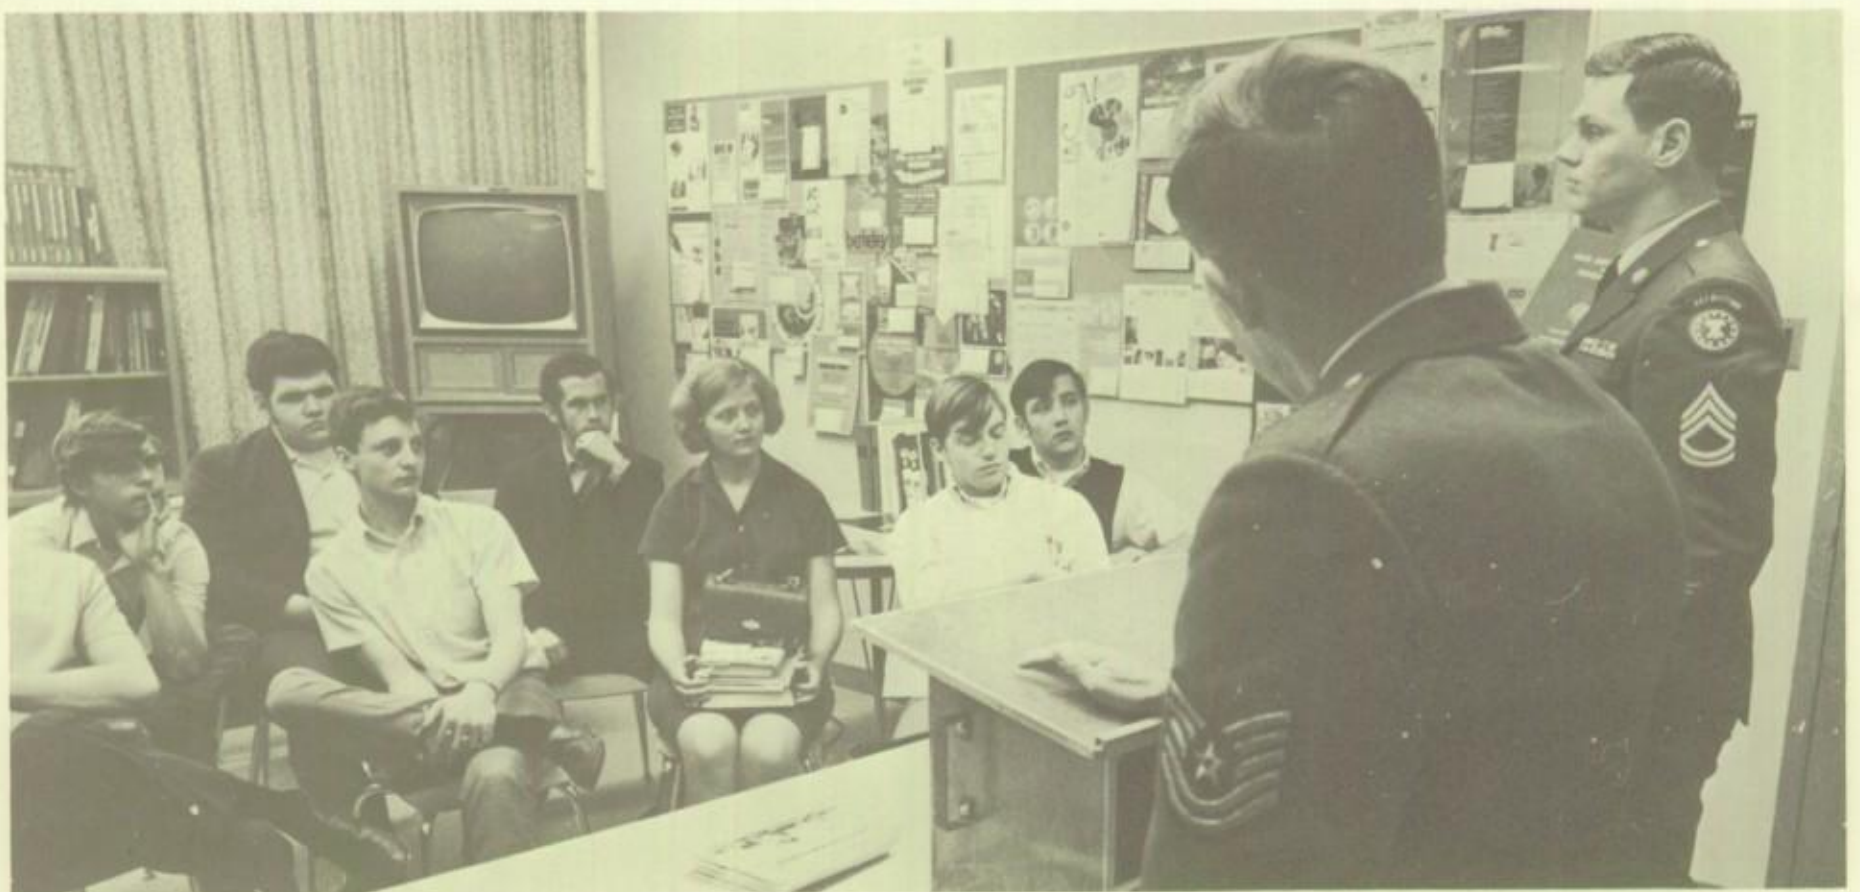

Guidance Personnel

Mr. John Hineman, director of guidance, and Mr. Ronald Young, counselor, assist students with plans for the future. Aside from individual interviews and scheduling, they direct testing throughout the year to determine intelligence, achievement, and ability of the students. They also lend a hand to junior high students who are as yet unsure of their abilities and aptitudes.

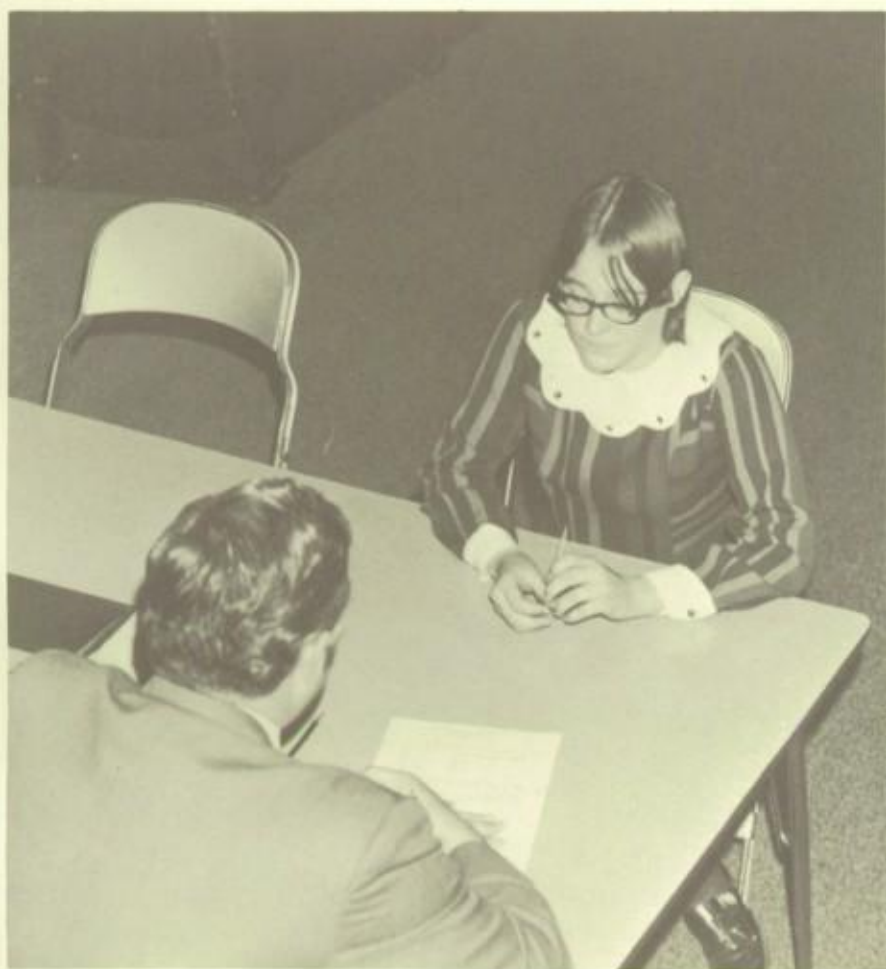

To help students crystalize their plans for the future, Western's Guidance Department offers numerous books and information. College catalogues and career booklets supplement the assistance by the counselors. Seminars and visiting representatives from district colleges and the military service help students decide on future plans.

Mr. Hineman explains the value of college catalogues to Gary Gibson and John Kelker.

Many guidance seminars were held this year. Among them was one which offered an Air Force and an Army recruiter as guest speakers.

Help Students Headed for Education or Vocation

Mr. Hineman looks over Vicki Adkins' registration form for 1970-71 before approving it.

Mr. Liebendorfer, state employment representative, interviews Tom Dawson for a job after graduation.

Denver Chisom discusses his present schedule with Mr. Young before deciding on his courses for next year.

Mr. Ronald Young, counselor, helps students to prepare early for the years ahead.

Instructional Materials Are Centered

Mr. Minich is director of audio visual aids throughout the school district.

Mike Madish numbers the overhead transparencies before filing them.

Members of the AVA Squad also learn to operate much equipment and give service to the faculty.

in a Modern Library

The Instructional Materials Center made independent study and research much easier by making available various resources in a single location.

The library and reference room portion, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Alice Safford, are continually being enlarged by the addition of new books. The library also affords newspaper and periodical racks, periodicals being retained for several years.

Mr. Michael Minich, Audio Visual Aids Director, along with his squad of AV boys maintains projectors, filmstrips, movies, and records for use by students and faculty throughout the year.

After a course in library instruction, Dean Michaels finds that using the card catalog is the easiest way to locate a book.

Librarian, Mrs. Safford, checks new books before adding them to the shelf.

Library club members help Mrs. Safford keep the library in order as well as attend to routine duties.

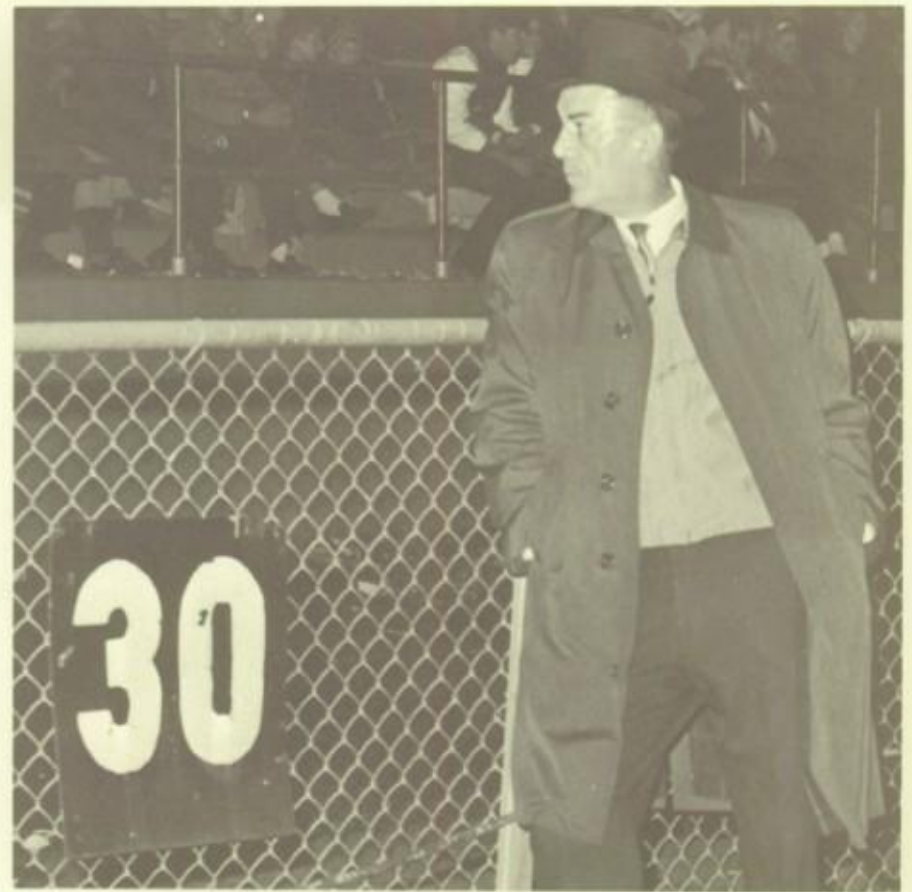

Mrs. Powell, Special Education instructor, examines artwork done by Eddy Ammon and Debbie Curtis.

Seventh grade hearing tests were given this year with assistance from the girls in the Future Nurses Club.

Drivers' Ed teacher, Mr. Palumbo, is ready for another exciting ride as he enters the training car.

Doctor James Sloss, our school physician, faithfully attends all football games.

Madelyn Gibson seeks the aid of Mrs. Helen Wright, school nurse.

These Persons Provide Us with Special Services

Seventh grade dental exams were administered by Doctor Hurt.

Mrs. Evelyn Powell exemplifies patience and understanding as she attends to the individual needs and interests of students in her Special Education classes. As an instructor she emphasizes creativity and invokes a friendly atmosphere in the classroom.

With the use of text books and movies, Mr. William Palumbo, Drivers' Education instructor, teaches students the rules and regulations of driving. In-the-car training prepares them to be alert and cautious in everyday driving.

Dr. James Sloss, and Dr. William Hurt offer their time to administer the annual physical and dental exams. Mrs. Helen Wright, our school nurse, helps with the exams and takes care of the Health Office.

Communication Lives or Dies with English

"Many a treasure besides Ali Baba's is unlocked with a verbal key," wrote Henry VanDyke. Indeed, written and spoken words are the key to knowledge. Therefore, since success in almost any field relies heavily upon command of language, the study of English dominates the academic scene at Western.

The study of great literary works introduces students to the impressive minds of the past. Understanding the importance of grammar, correct spelling, and punctuation is also an integral part of English courses. Writing composition and research crowns our language training.

Mrs. Hickey's English students, Michele Carland, Nadine Mandish, and Max Young compare their test papers with her copy.

Tom Cochran grows impatient as he waits for Mr. Sunday to finish his discussion with Carol Kelly.

Randy Cirelli constructs a tree of derivation while Mrs. Cody explains the procedure to Leslie Kane.

Mrs. Doyle enjoyed watching her seventh grade students perform a play.

Mrs. Stillwagon reviews sentence structure with Bob Prince while Dave Sanner, a former student, shows apparent interest.

During a classroom study hall, Mr. Marchion does some reading on his own.

Social Studies Seeks the Key to Our Acts & Dreams

Mr. Fred Latherow is chairman of the Social Studies Department. Like English, all students study some kind of social studies. Civics provides them with the understanding of government, while Pennsylvania history enriches their knowledge of this state. In ancient history and world cultures we trace the gradual development of civilization. After learning about the world, our students follow America's rapid rise to power. Economics, the study of the way people make a living, and Problems of Democracy climax the social studies program.

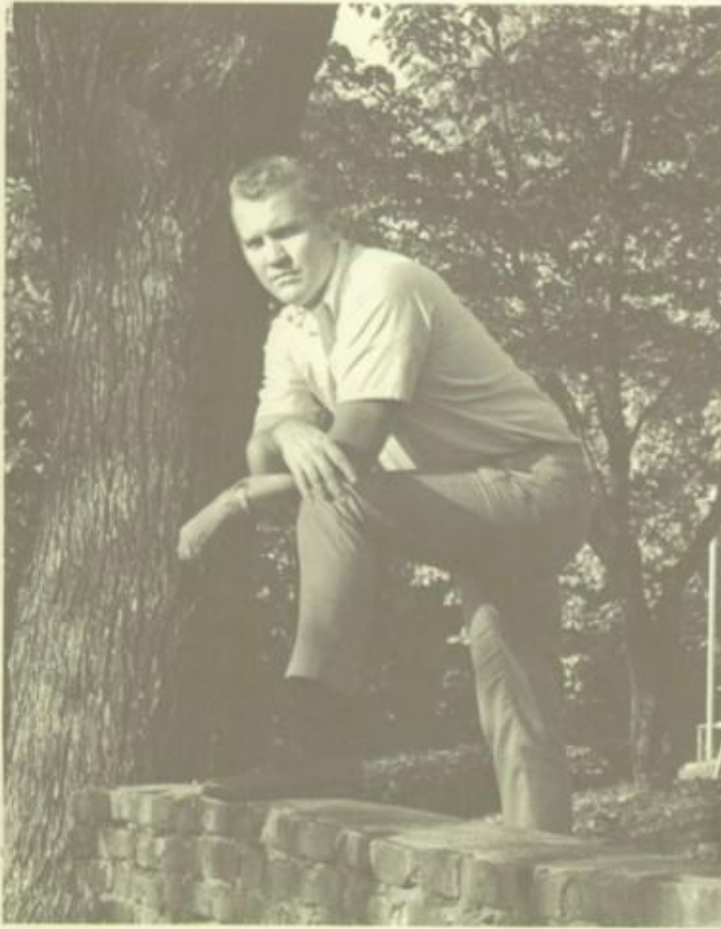

Mr. Hornick, U.S. History teacher, waits patiently for Mr. Latherow, Civics teacher to finish duplicating a test.

Mr. Ecklund took over the job of teaching World Cultures in March of this year.

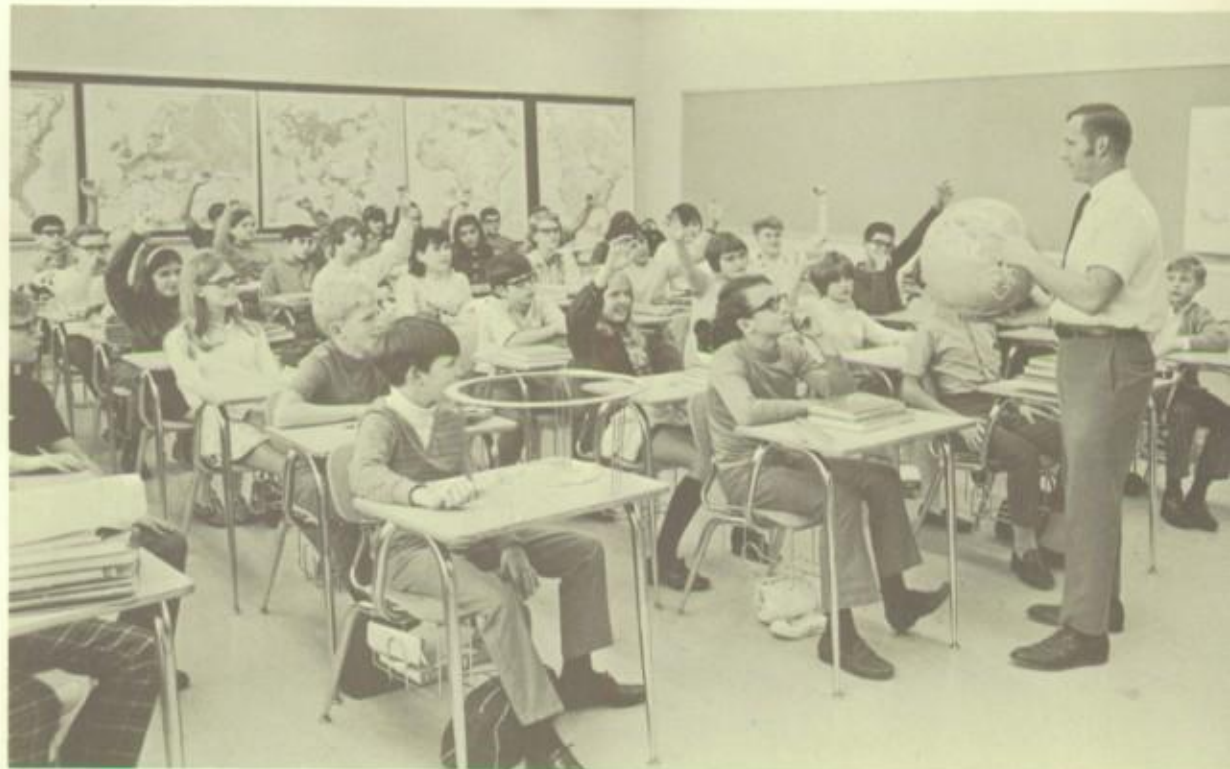

Ancient History teacher, Mr. Gallo, asked Dennis Jarrett to explain the position of Greece.

Mr. Temple, P.O.D. and Economics teacher, also doubles as our golf coach.

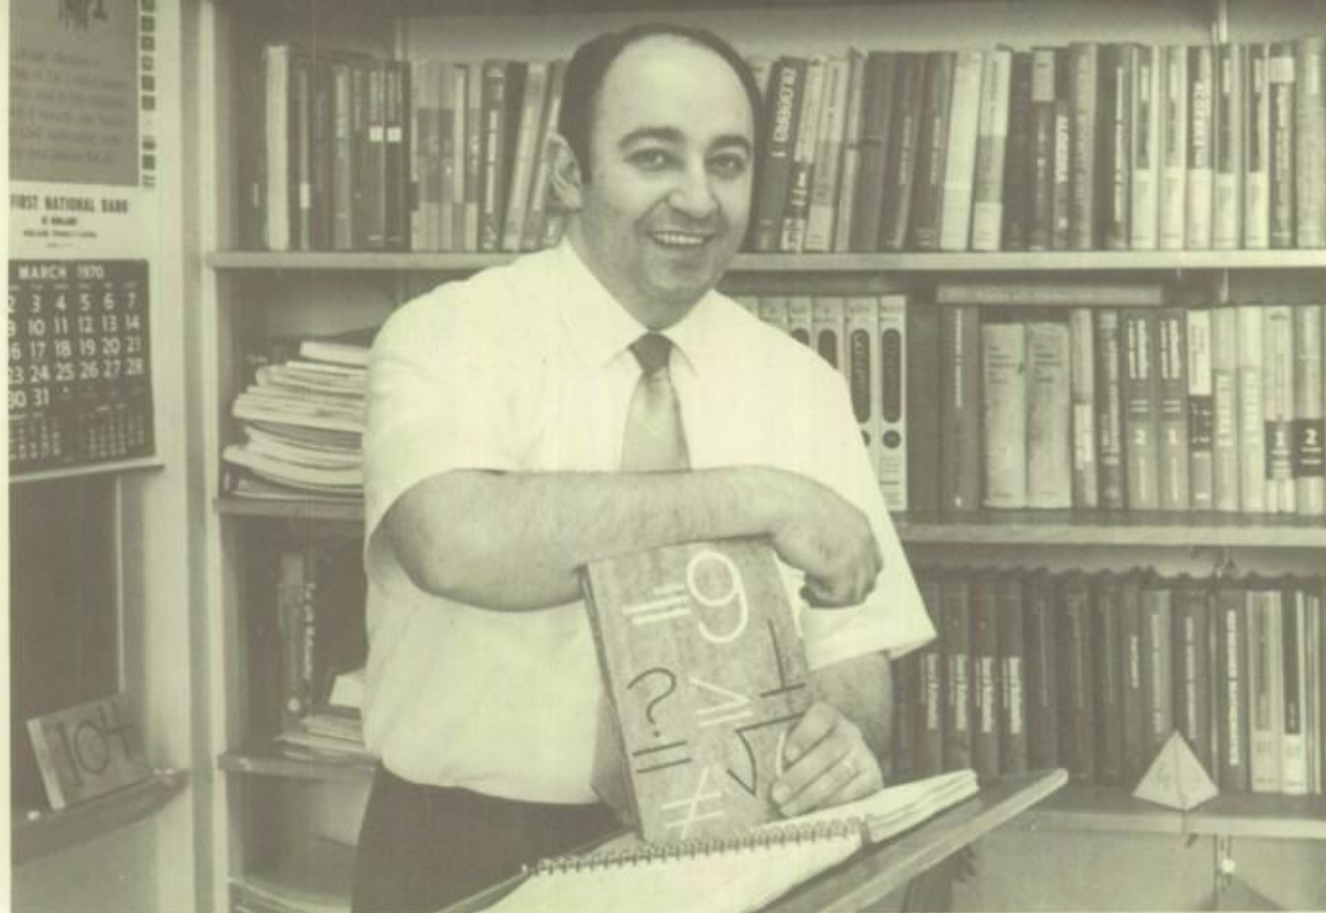

With the use of the overhead projector, Miss Horn explains the location of the countries in the Middle East.

Mr. Compston is pleased by the enthusiastic response of his seventh grade geography class.

Karen Fox asks Miss Johnston, her U.S. History teacher, for assistance on a homework assignment.

The affable personality of Mr. Cupani, Math Department Chairman, is clearly evident as he displays a modern math book.

Math Prepares Students for Future Challenges

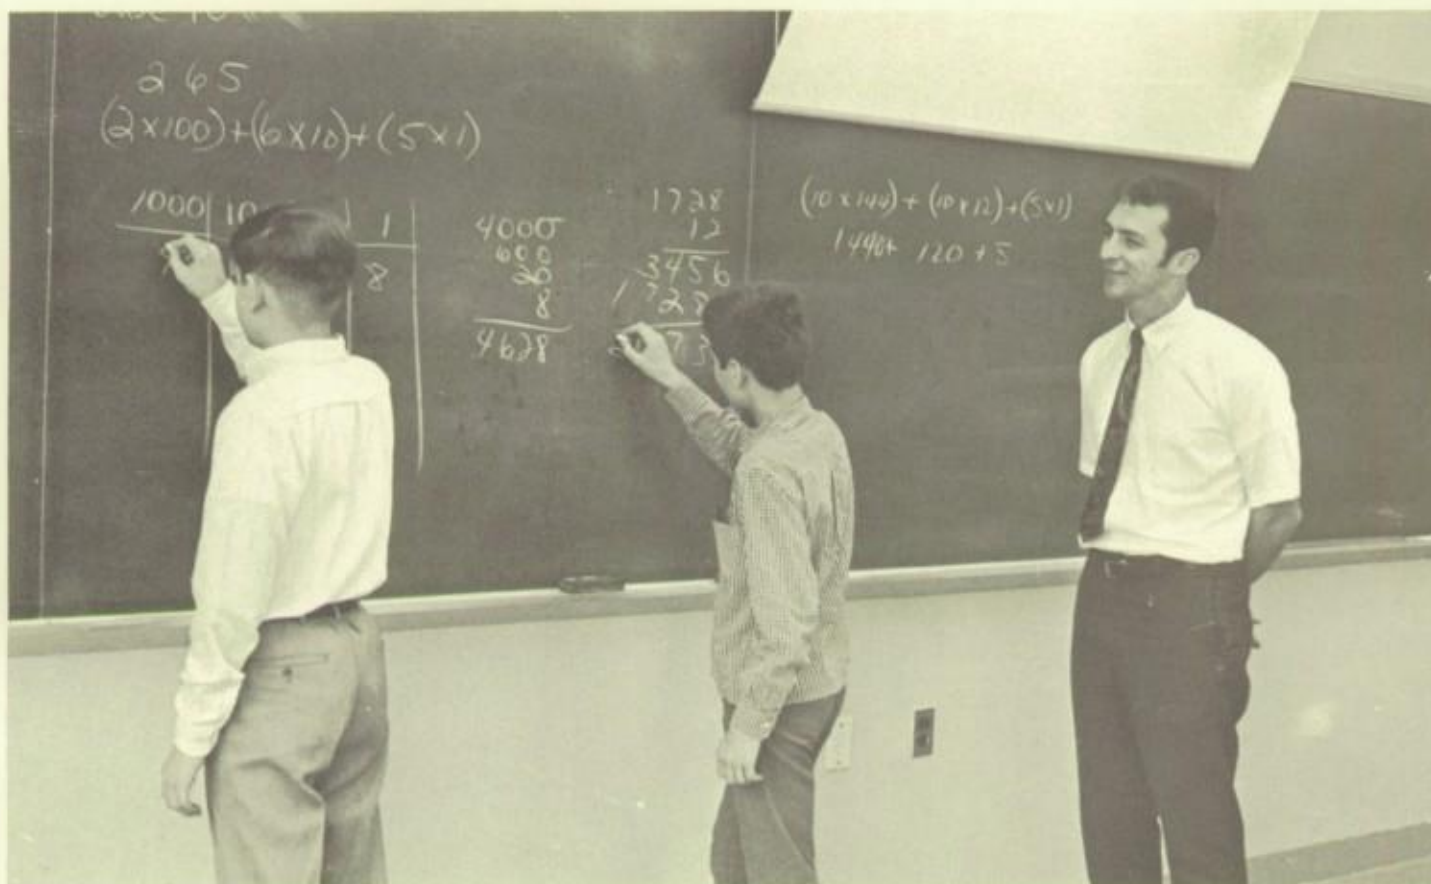

One objective of math is finding the answer the quickest way.

Students working in the weather room often find a knowledge of math helpful.

That mathematics is a living, growing subject is attested by recent dramatic innovations in the field. The diversified program offered by our Mathematics Department encourages all students to develop their abilities.

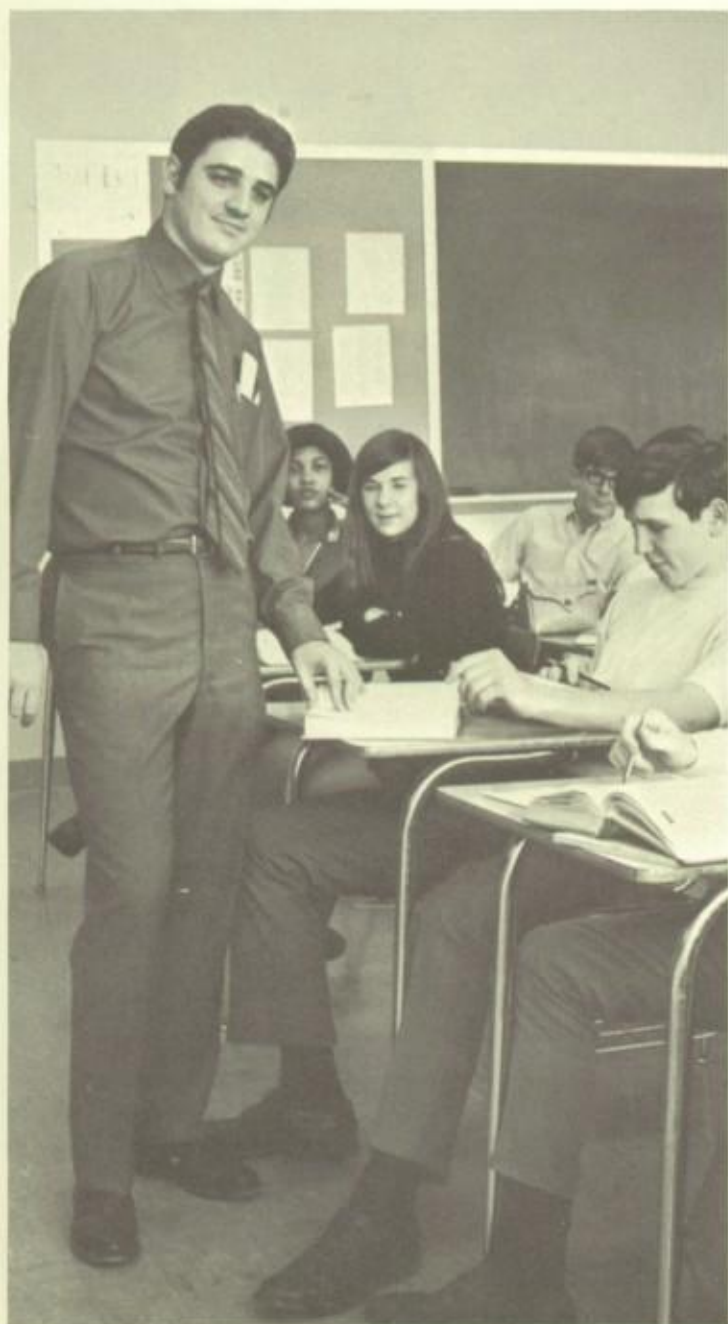

Most college-bound students study two years of algebra, then follow it by geometry and trigonometry. When they are seniors, qualified students study math analysis in order to prepare themselves for further study of mathematics and science. Non-college bound students may choose to study general math, non-academic algebra, or economic math.

Mr. Dudo reviews the construction of a base-ten numeral so that his students will more easily understand mathematical operations.

After finishing his lesson, Mr. Bruno listens to questions that have arisen on the following day's assignment.

Originality in problem solving often stimulated class discussion in Mrs. Bruno's geometry classes.

Mr. Minich awaits a request for assistance while Physics students perform an experiment with parallel forces.

Using a model, Mr. Bonner explains the relative movements of the earth and moon to Biljana Miljenovic, Karen Hoyt, and Bob Waida.

Myra Hoyt and Ricky Phillips sought the aid of Mr. Hromanik in order to identify the internal organs of the fetal pig.

Science Offers Balanced and Diversified Study

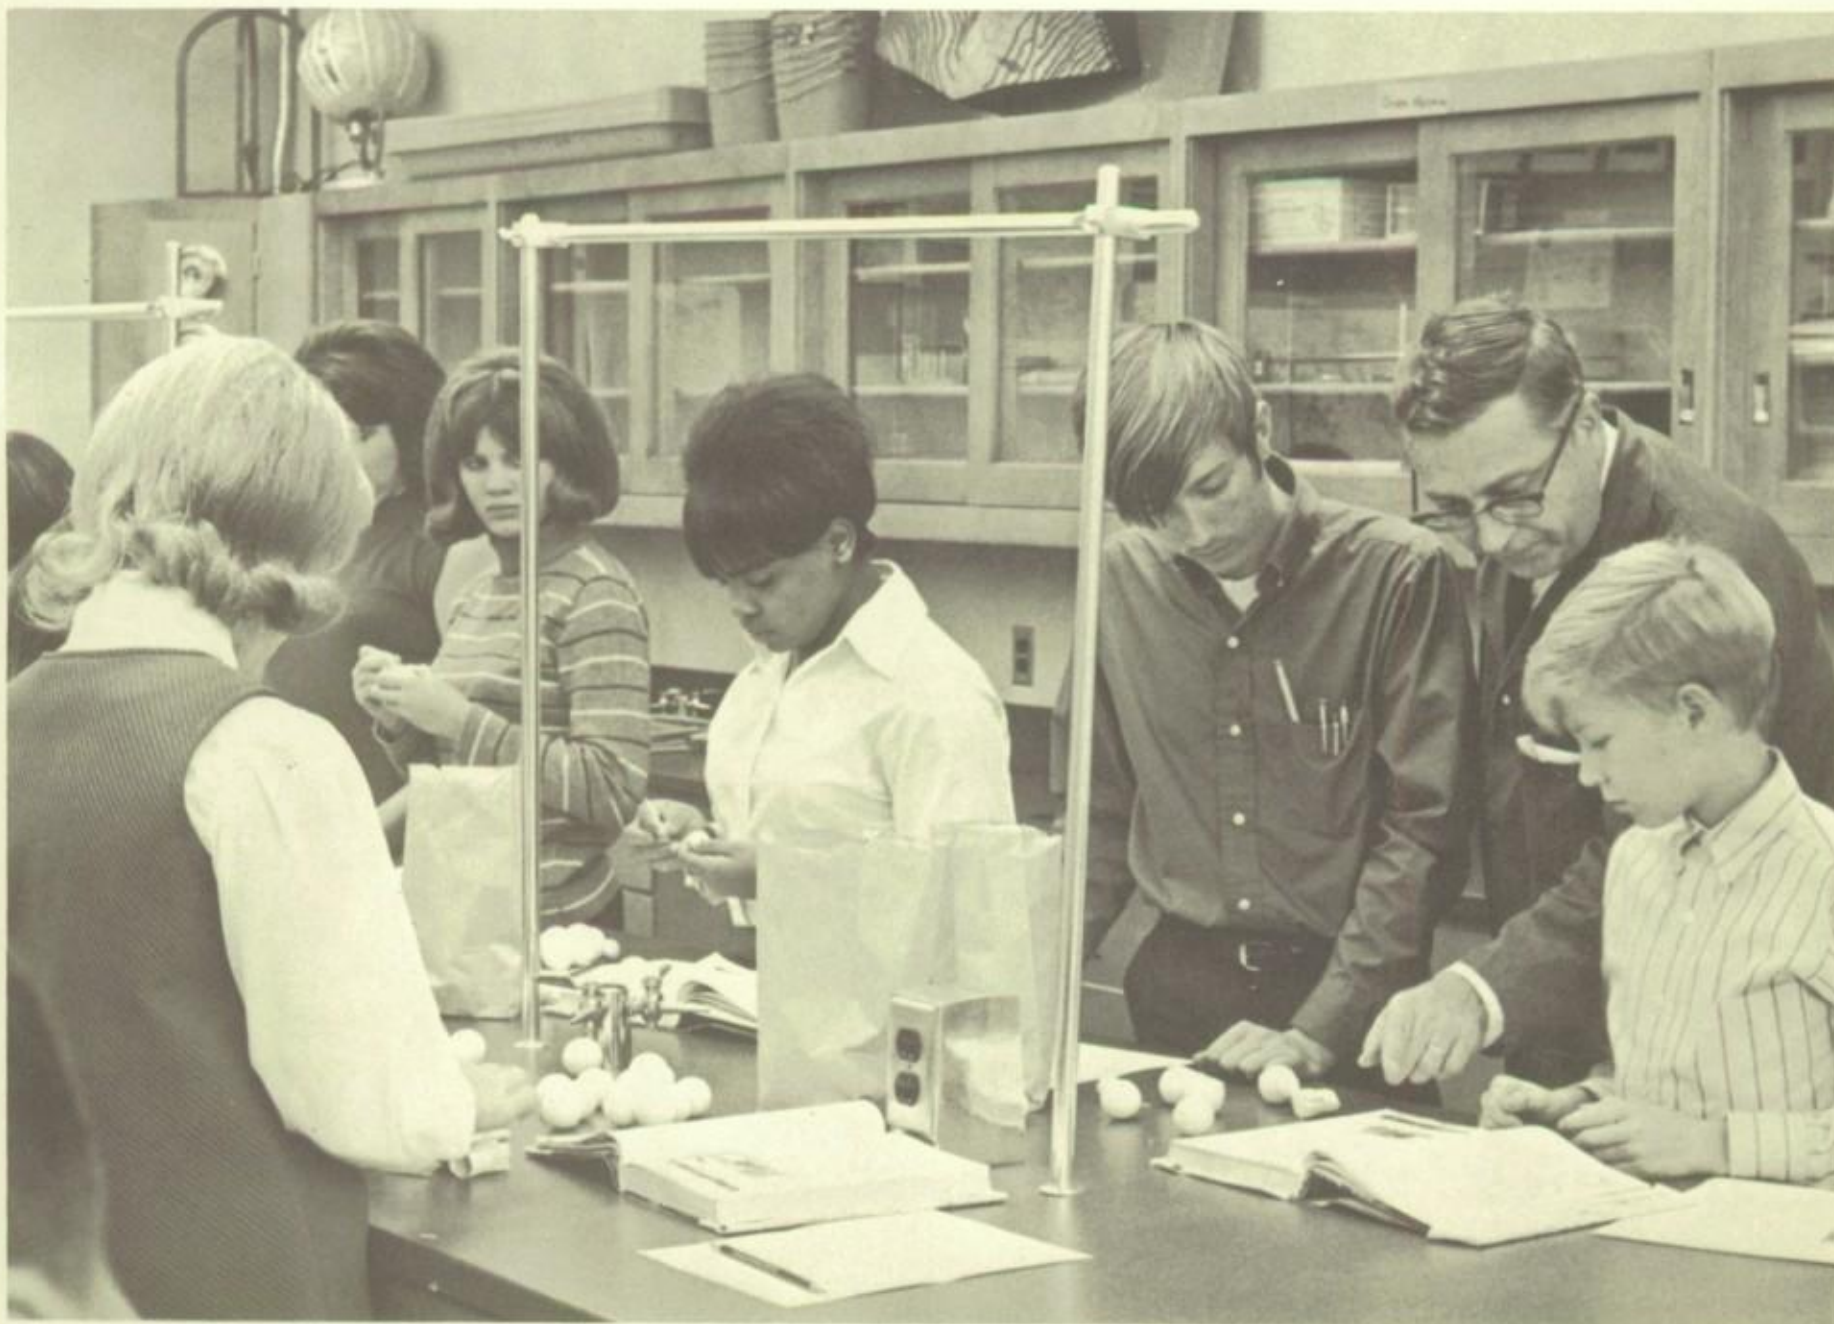

Mr. Dominici oversees students in Introduction to Chemistry as they do an experiment in calorimetry.

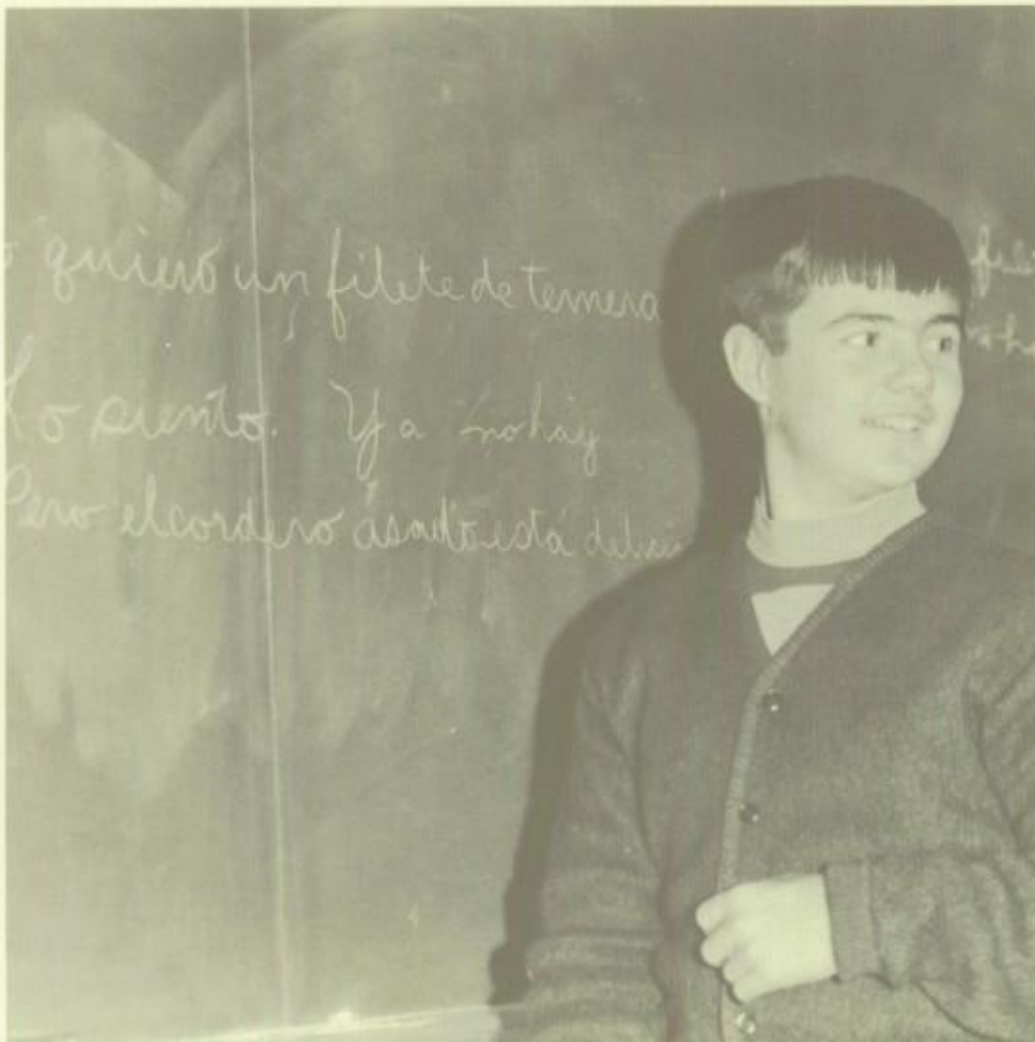

With the help of Mr. Mastrovich, ninth grade Earth and Space Science students assemble styrofoam models of silicon dioxide, the most common constituent of the earth's crust.

"If we the citizens are to truly understand ourselves and ensure the effective functioning of society so that we can make the most of our individual and collective lives and opportunities, we must do so through better understanding of and participating in, our science based society."

Edward Tatum

The science teachers at Western have organized the curriculum to fulfill two main purposes: to ensure that all our students receive enough science education to function effectively as citizens and to ensure that an individual with the desire to enter science as a profession will be trained for such a career and will be provided with the opportunity to use this training effectively.

Jim White waits for Mrs. Clear to dictate the next sentence from a basic dialogue.

Mrs. Clear found that taking her Spanish II class from the language lab to 210 made participation and boardwork easier.

Culture Comes Alive Through Foreign Languages

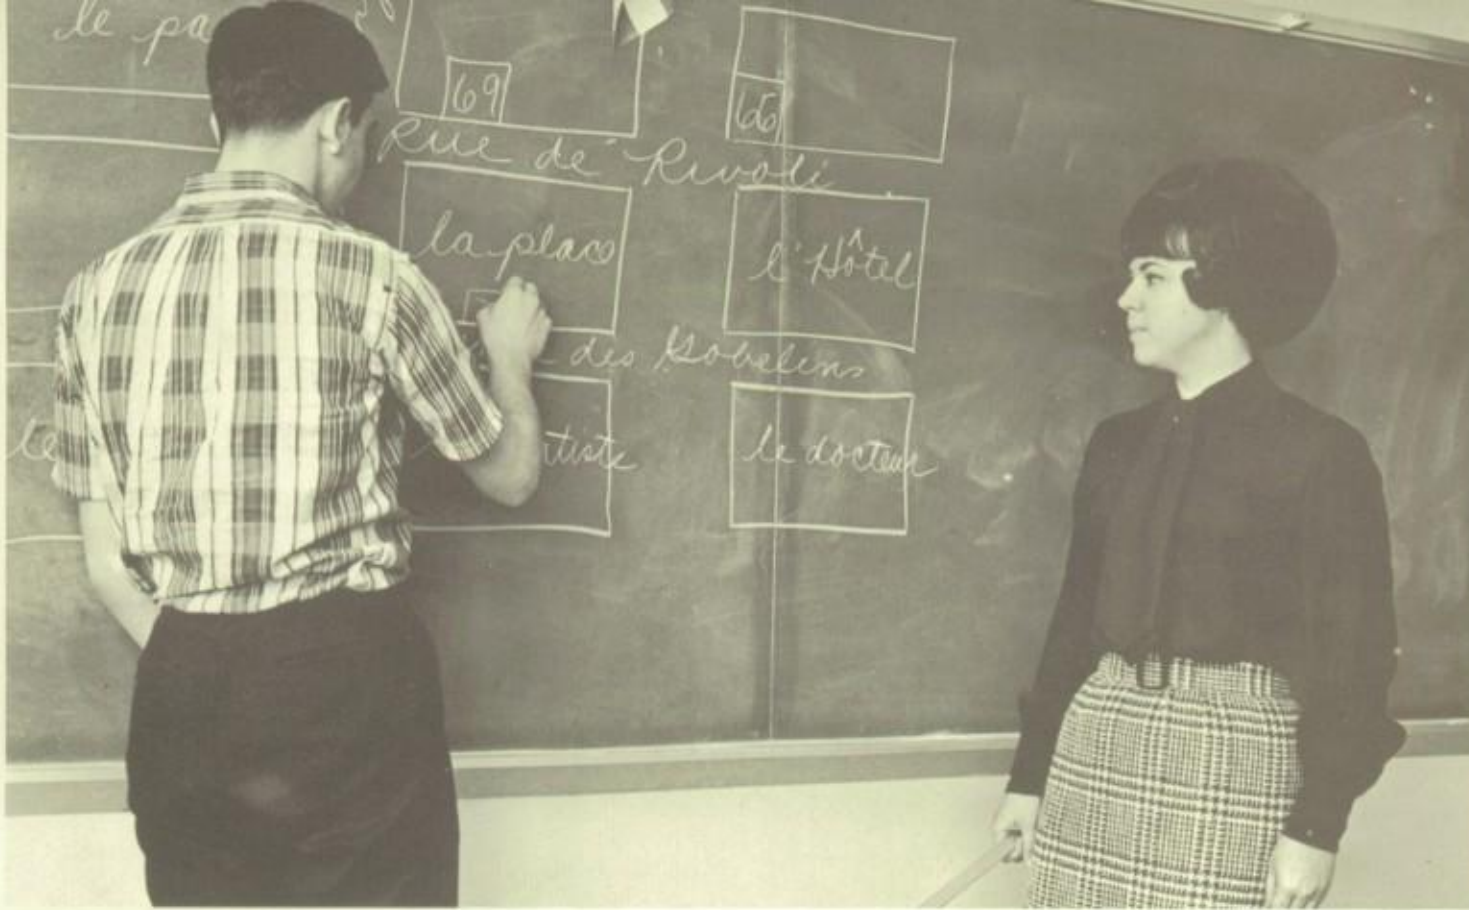

Bernie Sweesy, Spanish Club President, decorated the language lab bulletin board with proverbs in Spanish and their English equivalents.

Language crosses boundaries, spans oceans, circles the globe, and defies time. Through its study, a person may share in the thoughts and participate in the activities of many times and places.

Western students in ninth and tenth grades choose to study Latin as a means of gaining a better understanding of their own tongue, as well sharing in the glory that was Rome. In recent years, increased business with Latin America and the exchange student program have provided incentives for the choice of Spanish as a second language. French attracts an equal number by its musical flow and sparkling literature.

Mrs. Helen Clear, Spanish instructor, heads the foreign language department. Mr. Donald Sunday teaches Latin I and II, while Miss Christine Ivey instructs all French classes.

French I student, Bill Hoppa, fills in street names and numbers on a map drawn by Miss Ivey.

Miss Ivey reviews some basics with her advanced French class.

Bill Evans finds that the oral comprehension part of a Spanish exam demands complete involvement.

Mr. Sunday poses after discussing a Latin assignment with a student.

Mrs. Braheny dictates a letter in Shorthand II class for Connie Justice to write and transcribe.

Job Experience Offered by Business Ed Dept.

In the urban society of today, adequate knowledge of business methods and procedures often means the difference between failure and success.

Besides teaching future secretaries the latest methods in shorthand and typing, with the operation of business machines, this department offers a course in notehand and personal typing for college-bound students. The methods of filing important papers and correspondence and the recording of transactions are provided by the two-year bookkeeping course.

Distributive education recently has been included in the Business Department. Its on-the-job training is invaluable for students interested in entering the business world now.

Mrs. Mary Jane Braheny is department chairman.

Distributive Ed I students wait for Mr. Golletti to pass back their tests.

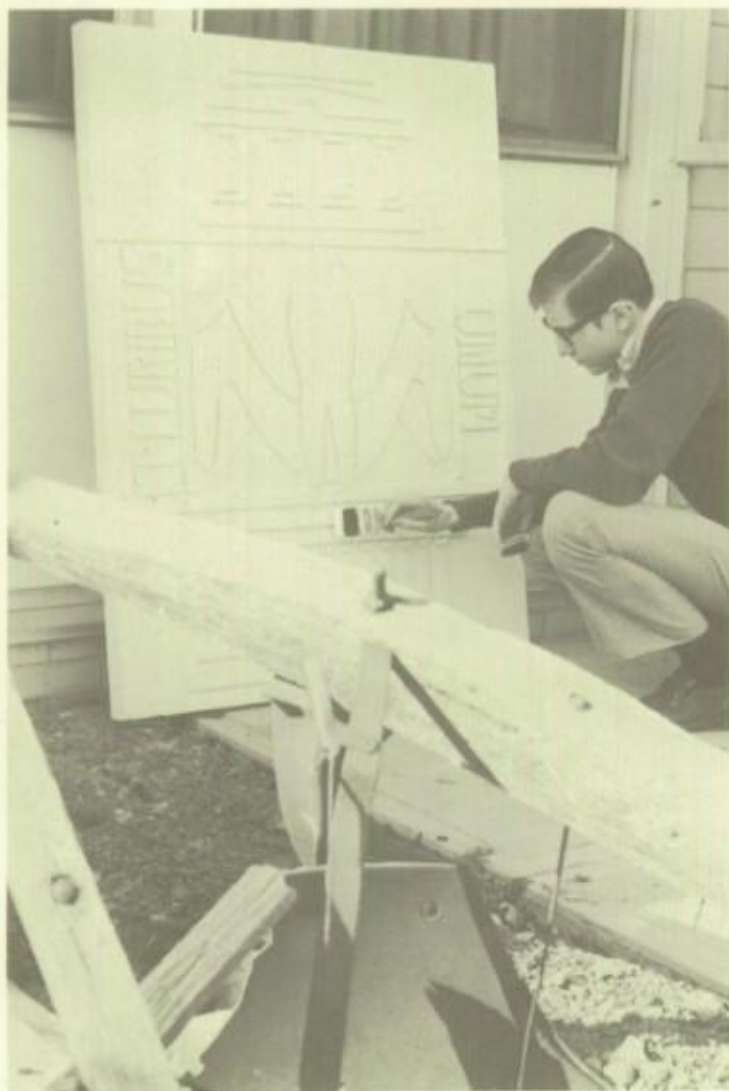

Henrietta Spencer puts the finishing touches on her shadow box display prepared for Distributive Ed II class.

Miss Graham demonstrates the proper operation of a typewriter to her beginning typing students.

A unique white-on-white project receives a final coat of paint from its designer, Tom Rosepiller.

Kathy Duck carefully works on her clay sculpture to get exact features.

Emotions Expressed, Beauty Created through Art

The goal of our art department is the creation and appreciation of beauty in its many guises. Creation of beauty through painting, drawing, and craft work gratifies the urge for expression of many students. Some seek in art only the satisfaction of the personal desire for creativity; others plan a career in this field.

Under the direction of Mr. Donald Nelson, art students constantly amaze us with brilliant, fun-loving, and beautiful projects. Favorites this year were the caricature drawings of faculty members and their tie-dyed shirts.

Mrs. Louise Librich is an outstanding junior high instructor. Her students particularly enjoyed making papier-maché birds and casting plaster objects.

Mr. Nelson, elective art instructor, gives pointers to his students as they begin lessons in sketching.

Papier-mâché birds were fun to make, especially with Mrs. Librich's help.

Originality is shown in Gary Duck's project "The Gladiator".

Miss Trivanovich and Mrs. Sheets, student teachers from Geneva College, check in the music room. Both are instructors of vocal music.

During the Annual Spring Band Concert, president Joyce Ulizio honored the Spadaro family.

Music Creates Cultural Interest among Students

The "Soul Sensations" practice before performing at the Variety Show.

The Music Department at Western offers a balanced program for all students. Required junior high music courses educate every student in elementary musical concepts. Those who find their talents and interests leaning toward choral or instrumental music may elect chorus or band.

Under the direction of Department Chairman, Mr. Leo Curto, junior high students are taught to understand various types of music while developing aesthetic appreciation. Mr. Curto also directs the Jr. and Sr. High Choruses.

Mr. Peter J. Spadaro directs the Concert and Marching Band, the Jr. High Band, and the Stage Band. He also instructs instrumental music.

Mr. Curto emphasizes how he would like the altos to perform a particularly difficult part.

Homemaking Courses Provide Useful Experiences

Home Ec electives invited Mrs. Cambier to join them at a luncheon, for which each girl had made a separate dish.

Mrs. Pitzer gives points to her eighth grade students on the proper technique of ironing.

Faculty members are often invited to Home Ec luncheons. Here Mr. Palumbo is the honor guest.

Since most girls plan to spend a large part of their future lives as homemakers, our school offers a complete course in Home Economics, which includes not only cooking and sewing but also such subjects as nutrition and etiquette. Whether they elect these subjects in order to prepare for occupations or merely to ready themselves for future home life, the department instills a fundamental knowledge of practical skills.

This year a number of boys also elected to study Home Ec.

Mrs. Camille Cambier, department chairman, instructs all classes in the foods laboratory while Mrs. Dawna Pitzer teaches sewing.

Barbecued salisbury steak, one of the main dishes at the mother-daughter banquet, was prepared by Yvonne Pucci, Sheila Dowling, and Shirley Umstead with the help of Mrs. Cambier.

Esther Martin and Nancy White made the salad dressing for the same banquet.

Mr. Moyer was our new metal shop and mechanical drawing teacher this year.

Accuracy counts, as Dan Cronin takes a measurement from the text to compare with his own drawing.

Industrial Arts Develops Precision and Skill

Mr. Rowe never strayed far from the telephone in the weeks prior to his daughter's birth.

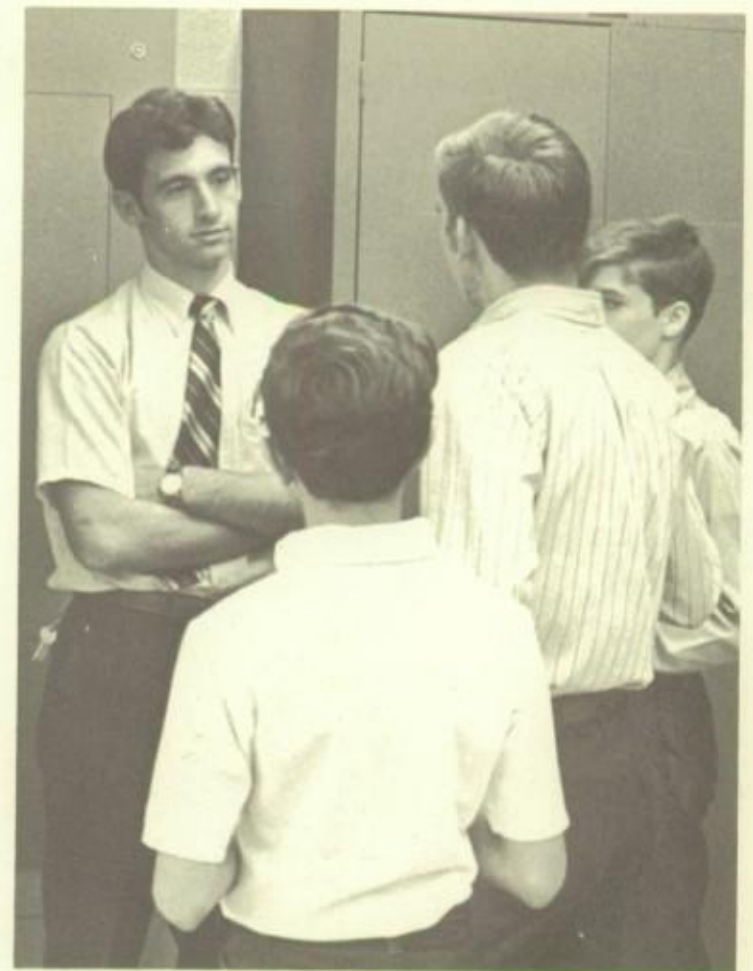

Shop elective Frank Cornman rubs in the wax as he places the finishing touches on his magazine rack.

Mr. Rowe instructs Jim Todd on how to use a table saw.

The Industrial Arts program offers for boys mechanical drawing and shop. By teaching the use of T-squares, triangles, and other drawing instruments, the department trains the architects and engineers of the future. While courses in the metal and wood shops prepare boys to work with their hands as wage earners, they also enable them to create useful articles for their homes. The department chairman is Mr. Dan Rowe.

Mr. Moyer administers helpful advice to Emil Espovich, Dan Turner, and Randy Evans.

Joe Trevino makes handy use of the vise while filing down metal.

Careful roll is taken before each gym class by Mrs. Vogel.

Area Boy Scouts competed in a first aid contest held at the High School.

Mr. Allison spots for Dan Cronin as he flips off the spring-board.

Popular Sports Included in Phys Ed Program

Cheryl Rummell is assisted by Mrs. Vogel as she performs a stunt on the rings.

Who says girls are the weaker sex?

In gym classes, students take part in a diversified program which ranges from rope-climbing and calisthenics to basketball and tumbling. For those who desire further participation our school provides interscholastic sports and an intramural program for both boys and girls.

Health courses tackle some of the major problems of today—drugs, venereal disease, mental health, and social psychology. Mrs. Janet Vogel serves as physical education chairman.

Sophomore Class Faced New Responsibilities

Finding themselves suddenly in a new atmosphere, this year's Sophomores took full advantage of being part of the senior high. Among their many activities were membership in senior high clubs, cheerleading, majorettes, and sports. Most of all, though, was the new and more mature attitude that these Sophomores developed.

Working together, the Class of 72 was also found to be cooperative. In addition to their usual annual activities, they sold candy to build up the treasury in anticipation of the rest of their senior high days together and entertained orphans with a picnic at Brady's Run Park.

After a busy and successful year, the Sophomores are now eagerly looking forward to two more productive years.

Early fall found the Juniors working on magazine sales. With great effort, including the fine help of their sponsor, Mr. Nelson, the Class of 1971 set an all time high in total sales at Western.

The Junior year was filled with many social activities as well as many tests and trips to the guidance office in preparation for college. Junior agenda also included the sponsoring of several dances and the usual hard work in preparation for the prom.

As the year drew to an end, increasing responsibilities became a reality. Juniors now anxiously await the opportunity to prove themselves capable seniors, to pursue their goals and aspirations.

A black and white photograph of a forest stream. The water flows over large, flat, light-colored rocks. The surrounding forest is dense with trees and foliage, creating a dappled light effect on the water and rocks. The stream flows from the upper left towards the lower right of the frame.

I do not know if you smiled when you were dying or cursed your friends for the little attention we paid you of late or how you spent your last full hour alive.
I do know we were saddened when we heard the news.

Mostly
because you gave yourself to us once without invention or restraint, for that we will remember you and love you.

Exchange Students Won Our Hearts

How proudly we welcomed Jorge Alcocer of Mexico City, our first exchange student this year. He spent two months with Superintendent & Mrs. Frank Meredith and Daryl.

Everyone shared the honor as Dave presented George with a Western sweater.

Shy and thoughtful, George had a keen mind and a wry sense of humor. He readily became one of our student body.

Carlos Diaz, from Guatemala City, welcomed the comforts of Dr. Dawson's home after a day's busy schedule.

It is evident that Carlos enjoyed the applause at the farewell assembly held for him.

Nena, keeping up with the styles, made a pantskirt and vest as her first attempt at sewing.

Nena Sotelo, from Lima, Peru, spent five months with the Lentz's and with Mrs. Clear.

Jr. Hi Basketball Furnished an Exciting Season

Coach Karpiak looks on as the team warms up with some practice shots before the game at Highland.

The junior high basketball team, coached by Mr. Ron Karpiak, had a difficult task rebuilding itself after losing all but three of last year's players. However, we won four games, defeating Midland once, Northwestern once, and Southside twice.

History was made this year when we overcame Midland with a score of 53-43. The most thrilling game of the season was against Monaca, this year's section winner. We lost 34-28, but we managed to double their total score in field goals.

Eighth grader, Denver Chisom, was top scorer for the year with 151 points. Other high scorers were Tom Kennedy and Daryl Meredith.

Ninth grade players were: Jim Hoskinson, Daryl Meredith, Matt Preston, and Tom Kennedy.

Intramurals and Girls' Track Augment

The senior girls who attended Geneva Play Day decided to get a tan while they practiced their softball.

In girls' athletics everybody gets her chance, and for these girls it's archery time. Mrs. Vogel sponsored Intramurals.

On the boys' side of the gym there was usually a friendly game of basketball in progress.

Western's Athletic Program

In Special Olympics regional competition Mike St. Esprit took first in the mile run and second in the 300 yard dash while Chuck Tindell placed first in two swimming events.

This year a girls' track team was formed at Western. The team had quite a good first season under the coaching of Mr. Donald Lentz. Many sixth graders competed along with these seventh graders.

On Parents' night the varsity cheerleaders pinned a carnation on the father of each senior football player before the mothers received a corsage from their son.

Parents' Night and Homecoming Ceremonies

George Loncar frees his hands so he can pin on his mother's corsage.

Barry Dawson seems to find pinning on a corsage a rather difficult procedure.

On Oct. 4, Lana Ancrile was crowned 1969 Homecoming Queen. She received congratulations from her mother.

After the coronation, Queen Lana joyfully accepts the crowd's acclamation.

The hanging of crepe paper is symbolic of all special dances.

Ninth grade boys relax while decorating for their dance, entitled "Cloud 9".

These couples prepare to leave after an enjoyable evening at the Winter Frolic.

Special Dances Brightened Our Friday Nights

Refreshments are a welcome addition at all the school dances. These girls prepare to serve at the Winter Frolic.

Siamese twins, Nancy Hammond and Karen McKinney, took first prize at the Halloween Dance.

First prize winner at the Sadie Hawkins Dance was Debbie Balco.

Buddy and Wilhemena, as "the Dutch Duo", presented a lively program including a wooden shoe dance.

A representative from the Atomic Energy Commission explained an atomic reactor and its usefulness in today's society.

Students board the buses for the annual exchange assembly with nearby Midland High.

Mr. Applanap demonstrated the prizes for the Junior magazine sales campaign.

The trampoline program in February was our favorite. It featured student participation.

Assembly Programs Often Enliven a Routine Day

Geneva's concert band struck an informal air but played excellent music.

Stage crew boys often helped with unloading assembly equipment.

During play production, Mike Rosepiller put in many hard hours at the light console.

John Onuska and Bob Petchel often worked late into the evening to insure that all flats would be finished by the deadline.

In the dressing room, Tony Jones and Charles Anthony discuss the script with members of the make-up crew.

Mike D'Angelo and Pat Nutz help John Onuska refill the homemade snow machine used in the production.

A Romantic Comedy Scored a Hit as School Play

Charles Anthony, Chris Stall, Kathy Duck, and Dave McCreery starred in this year's all school play, "Barefoot in the Park". Kathy and Dave portrayed newlyweds with Chris as Kathy's mother, and Charles as an upstairs neighbor.

The delivery boy and the telephone man were played by Pat Nutz and Tony Jones.

Using Bob Petchel as a model, Mrs. Hickey, director, demonstrated the application of makeup to her speech class.

Prom Featured Signs of the Zodiac

The Junior-Senior Prom was held on May 1, 1970. Esther Fugitt and Henry Price proudly display their formal attire at the Grand March. Doug Cambier was master of ceremonies.

Even sitting one out can be enjoyable with the right company.

Marilyn Mehno and Tom Evans, sophomore servers, make last minute preparation.

The couples found that the unique entrance was only the beginning of an enchanted evening.

The Soul Sensation, with our own Steve Mosura, supplied the evening's entertainment.

The Gemini Twins appear to be watching over Ralph Webb and Sue Benek.

Pretty, Blond Nina Reigned at 1970 Arts Festival

ARTS FESTIVAL COURT: Yvonne Pucci, Nina Zawoysky, Carla Chaffee, Chris Fedorko, JoJo Duplaga, Kathy Duck, Lana Ancrile, Joy Acon.

Eighth grade girls admire the papier-mâché birds made by their classmates.

Overcome by surprise, Nina Zawoysky realized that she had been chosen queen.

Bob Hill found that the intricacies of this metal sculpture required a second look.

Also on display were various wood and metal shop projects built by students in grades seven through twelve.

Of course, the evening's festivities were heightened by the presence of Mr. Hromanik and Mr. Curto.

Rosemaria Montenegro, an exchange student from Guatemala, welcomed each guest at the customs booth.

Mrs. Clear and some of her senior Spanish students prepare to sing at the Fiesta.

Theresa Herald and Paul Chmara serve the "ensalada".

Spanish Fiesta Featured "Un Viaje a Mexico"

The music with the Latin beat played by Dennis Nola's group was great!

Their Mexican costumes added atmosphere to an already gala affair.

Seniors, faculty, and administration all line up to fill their plates.

Gary Gibson saves himself the trouble of coming back for seconds.

Putting formality aside, Bill Coble enjoyed his meal.

The camera surprises George Reed as he picks up his dessert.

Senior Banquet Was Held at The Willows

The table looks as though it will easily withstand the two front attack converging upon it.

Class president, Thorning Little, and a group of senior boys gather around to reminisce with Mrs. Hickey, class sponsor.

After the banquet, friends gathered to chat and play records.

Broadway Hits Were Featured at Choral Concerts

At the spring concert, "The Best of Broadway" the senior high choir performed selections from musicals, including "Mame", "Hair", and "Oliver".

Jim Hawthorne, Mike Verzella, Bill Ondra, and Mike D'Angelo formed a quartet and sang "Get Me to the Church on Time".

The winter concert, "Christmas, Past, Present, and Future", was enhanced by the performance of a sophomores girls' octet dressed as Santa's elves.

Santa, alias Mike Devich, entertains the crowd with a polka at the Christmas Concert.

Chorus members exit the concert singing "Let the Sunshine In."

After intermission, choir members, dressed in informal attire, led the audience in singing a number from "Hair".

After the concert, Mr. Curto expressed to the choir his pleasure with the performance.

The yearbook is not only a recreation of a complete school year, but also a reflection of excellence and hard work put into it by its participants. Under the direction of Mrs. Helen Clear, the Aurora staff has endeavored to create an enduring memento of both the curricular and extra-curricular life at Western during 1969-1970. Mr. Angelo Cupani and his staff of seniors handled all business matters.

Before attempting a page, Anita Castellano and Holly Duplaga confer with Mrs. Clear on proper procedure.

Kathy O'Hara stops by Room 213 to ask Veronica Mastrovich to type an article.

Last year's editor, Darlene Hanshaw, presented the first copy of the 1969 AURORA to Mr. Arbutina.

Seventh graders, Sabrina LeMasters and Kim Knott, compiled the faculty directory and identified junior high photos.

By writing captions, Sam McConkey, Greg Mortimer, and Rick Phillips helped to meet deadlines.

Kathy O'Hara, as editor-in-chief, has been dedicated to this year's book. She has overseen all phases of its publications.

Mr. Don Parker and Dave Sanner took advantage of a break in a picture schedule to stop in the Home Ec Suite.

Joe Dawson, exchange student to Guatemala City, Kathy Duck, winner of DAR good citizen award, and Doug Cambier, bandsman of the year, pose in the library.

District choir members, Mike D'Angelo, Patty Eichler, Mike Verzella, and Anita Castellano practice before leaving for Riverside.

Ralph Cilli, Mike Verzella, and Jeff Wentz were chosen to attend District Band this year. Jeff later advanced to State Band.

For outstanding performance in football, Dave McCreery was nominated to "Who's Who in High School Athletics".

Pretty Kathy Moreira was elected queen of the annual Seventh-Eighth Grade Frolic.

In Appreciation

There are many people responsible for the completion of a book such as this. Although too numerous to name them all, a few of the outstanding ones we wish to thank are Mr. Don Parker and Mr. Michael Minich for their excellent photography, Mr. Jim McWilliams and Mr. George Stewart for their advice, Mr. Angelo Cupani for his financial assistance, and the staff for its hard work and cooperation.
